

SEPARATISTS ARE LOSING GROUND PREPARING FOR TRIAL OF WALTON

Lose Their Hold On Several Places; Six Killed In One Town

Republic Is Proclaimed at Coblenz and Other Places Are Invaded But On Other Hand They Are Being Ousted In Several Cities.

(By The Associated Press.) DUESSELDORF, Oct. 24.—The Rhineland republican government has spent its first force, according to major reports received over the crippled wire systems, but the situation is still serious. The republicans took a few additional villages and towns yesterday and last night but cleared out of Coblenz, their "capital" and Mayence and reaction is apparent in a number of the towns they still hold.

NINE REPORTED KILLED (By The Associated Press.) LONDON, Oct. 24.—Reports received in Berlin indicate that Rhineland republicans are losing ground, says a dispatch to the Central News this afternoon. They have been ejected from Coblenz, the message states, nine persons being killed there. The republicans also have been driven from Duesseldorf and Crefeld, the dispatch adds.

(By The Associated Press.) AIX LA CHAPPELLE, Oct. 23.—Half a dozen persons were killed and scores wounded as the loyalists regained possession of Aix La Chapelle. The movement to oust the separatists, from the government building which took form Monday night, had gained strength by Tuesday morning and before noon some of the separatists who had been in the structure were attacked by the crowd. Their comrades in the building came to the rescue, seized a number of the motor trucks and drove through the streets firing right and left into the throng.

The situation became too much for the local police and Belgian troops arrived on the scene, clearing the streets and driving the separatists back to their remaining stronghold. A semblance of order had been restored, police Commissioner Wilhelm Buhr went to the government building, in which only forty republicans were confined and gave the invaders until 3 o'clock in the afternoon to evacuate the premises.

A few minutes afterwards, the correspondent of the Associated Press, F. T. Hollowell, ignoring the ultimatum, knocked at the door of the town. Deckers, answered the knock.

"Come in," he said. The correspondent did so and immediately the door was barred and barricaded behind him. As there appeared to be no other way out, the reporter attempted to telephone the British consul for help, but the instrument was dead.

He then tried to induce some green uniformed ambulance men who were attending three wounded separatists.

Cold Weather Hits Norfolk

(By The Associated Press.) NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 24.—The slight drop in temperature which followed the sudden wind shift indicating that the center of the northeastern storm had passed over the Tidewater Virginia and up the coast was being felt keenly at Norfolk.

The minimum temperature in this section early today was but fifty degrees but the air held out a threat of winter.

The backbone of the northeast gale, so far as Norfolk was concerned, snapped last night when the wind dropped abruptly from forty to twelve miles an hour. Earlier in the day a wind force of fifty miles an hour had been recorded at Cape Henry.

HEAVY LOSS BY GALE OFF COAST 4 Warrants Against Auction Houses Are Issued By "Co-ops"

TWO ARE AGAINST DANVILLE WAREHOUSE CORPORATION AND FOR SATURDAY—ALLEGED MARKET LAW BREAK.

The first test of strength in Danville between the forces of co-operative marketing and the forces of the auction system was precipitated here at three o'clock this afternoon when four warrants were issued by Rufus Carter, inspector for the 'pool.' Two of these were against the Danville Warehouse Corporation and the other two were against the Piedmont Warehouse.

The warrants were issued out after the attorney for the Co-operative Marketing association, Harry Wooding, Jr. and Mr. Carter, the inspector had conferred at length this morning.

One warrant charges that on October 10th, the Virginia tobacco marketing law was violated by the Danville Warehouse Corporation when Rufus Carter was denied the right to inspect tickets at Central Warehouse of which J. H. Wilson is manager.

A second warrant charges that on Oct. 19th, the Danville Warehouse Corporation set out a pile of tobacco in the name of 'Royal and H' at Union Warehouse this being alleged to be in violation of the marketing law.

A third warrant alleges that on October 8th the Piedmont Warehouse set out tobacco bearing a ticket with the initials 'W. T. W.' which it is charged is not the 'true name' of the owner.

The fourth warrant is also against the Piedmont Warehouse Corporation this charging that a lot of tobacco was set out in the name of 'C. M. Mahan.' According to the attorney for the association, Mr. Mahan was interviewed and he stated that he had not sold any tobacco for the past thirty years.

No arrests have been made but notice was served on the corporations against which the warrants were issued and they are cited to appear in the police court on Saturday morning at nine o'clock. The case here are similar in import to those developing a few days ago in South Boston. It is intimated that no defense will be made and that any decision against the auction men will be appealed to the Corporation court and probably higher.

MOVE ON TO RETURN KAISER TO THRONE?

(By The Associated Press.) DOORN, Holland, Oct. 24.—The visit former Crown Prince Friedrich Helm of Prussia, is now making at Doorn Castle is regarded as having considerable significance. According to information from several reliable sources and from persons close to the former Kaiser, the presence of the Prince in Doorn is connected with the return of Princess Hermine from the Reich, whence she brought very important news concerning the activities of the nationalist military party and the chances of the eventual return of William Hohenzollern to the throne.

It is stated that Hermine herself is displaying great activity and that all her keen intelligence is directed against the object and hope of becoming Empress. Moreover, quite recently an officer of high rank from Dresden and a political personage from Munich have been guests of the former Emperor, who since this visit has shown great nervousness.

A detail regarded as curious is the fact that a Doorn furniture dealer has been commissioned to declare a large quantity of the rich tapestries and curtains belonging to the exile and also a large part of his wardrobe.

The Dutch government and authorities are closely watching the movements of the former Kaiser and his son and the police force guarding them has been doubled.

The Shakespeare Study Club will meet with Mrs. W. R. Hill, four o'clock, Thursday afternoon at the country club. Dr. Samuel Newman will be the speaker. His subject will be "The Play of the Child in Our National Conference."

Tobacco sales here today were considerably lighter than yesterday, the offerings being disposed of by about noon. Yesterday's rain was a factor in the slowing down of deliveries which were in sharp contrast with the sales of yesterday. A good deal of common tobacco was in evidence on the floors this morning.

Danville Methodist ministers and some of the lay delegates who attended the annual conference at Richmond this week, returned during the course of today after what they describe as one of the most interesting conferences in years and one which reflected the growth and broadening scope of Methodism throughout the Old Dominion.

David P. Garvin and C. E. Evans have returned to Danville from Baltimore, where they attended the annual convention of the Kiwanis International, Capital District. Thomas C. Burch of Martinsville, elected lieutenant-governor to succeed Frank Talbot of this city who held that position during the past year. It is understood Mr. Talbot did not leave the Methodist conference to attend the Baltimore session.

William Norman and George Graveley were held for the action of the Pittsburgh Curcuit court grand jury by Magistrate R. S. Pitts this morning following a hearing at Schoolfield, on charges of their responsibility for the death of Howard Alderson on the Bradley road several nights ago. Two colored women who were in the car at the time, were dismissed. There was evidence that Norman was running at a rate of about fifty miles an hour at the time of the accident. Graveley testifying that he had several times urged Norman to moderate his speed. The colored women supported this statement but the magistrate did not consider that relieved Graveley of his responsibility since it was shown that the car driven by Norman belonged to him. The negroes will be taken to Chatham jail.

Klan Day at the Texas State Fair

(By The Associated Press.) DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 24.—Klan Day at the Texas state fair has brought hundreds of members of the Ku Klux Klan here to play and attend official duties.

Klan tokens by the myriad, red "100 per cent." buttons on lapels, K. K. K. streamers, automobiles and buildings, crimson ribbons waving from dresses and banners and insignia of the clan appeared.

however, was slow, and it was impossible to obtain definite information regarding ships that were known to have been in the area.

Shipping on the Delaware river practically was at a standstill during the storm and many outward bound vessels anchored inside the cape, most of them started moving shortly before daylight.

No information as to the fate of the British Steamship Westmoreland, which yesterday sent out an urgent call for aid, was available here. Reports of the Philadelphia Navy yard and other stations to communicate with the Westmoreland by wireless were futile. In her call for assistance the vessel gave her position as 34 miles east of the Five Fathoms bank lightship, which is 22 miles from Delaware breakwater and near the position where the Northern Pacific burned and sank two years ago.

Heavy property damage was caused by the storm in southern New Jersey and Delaware coast towns. The wind attained a velocity of 65 miles an hour in some places.

SHIP MOVEMENTS AT HAMPTON ROADS RESUMED

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 24.—Ship movements at Hampton Roads resumed this morning, the storm which has raged off the coast for the past two days having abated. The wind shifted around to the west last night and the seas are smaller this morning.

No word has yet been heard from the British Steamship Westmoreland, which was believed to have gone down off the Delaware breakwater Monday night with her crew of 80 officers and men. Norton Lilly Company, American agents for the ship, have wireless all crafts to keep a lookout for the craft or her survivors.

The Westmoreland reported by wireless that her lifeboats were gone and asked that help be sent the crew. Cape May replied that the storm was too rough for any available boat to live in.

News and vicinity yesterday was visited by the highest tides in years. A heavy toll of property damage was taken along the shores of the Chesapeake Bay, Hampton Roads and James River, small piers, breakwaters and boats being washed out to sea. The water came up over some of the streets leading to the waterfront, something it has not done in many years.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 24.—The fishing boat Mabel H. was afloat somewhere in the Chesapeake Bay yesterday, according to a long distance telephone message received at the Hampton Roads Naval Base last night from Westport, N. J., the crafts home port. The little boat carried two lifeboats and a crew of six men.

The Mabel H. left Westport Monday night and was reported to be in the storm that swept the lower Chesapeake Monday night and yesterday. Request was made that the boat be maintained for the boat.

The Norfolk police patrol boat was ordered to maintain a watch for the vessel.

NO WORD REGARDING FATE OF WESTMORELAND

(By The Associated Press.)
DELAWARE BREAKWATER, Del., Oct. 24.—No word came from the fate of the British Steamship Westmoreland, which is reported to have sent out an S. O. S. call in the midst of the severe northeast storm on Monday night while 35 miles off the Delaware cape. The call was received by the wireless operators aboard the Danish Steamer Phoenix which has arrived at Newport News. The Westmoreland, according to her Philadelphia agents, carried a crew of about sixty.

Shipping men here were inclined to believe the Westmoreland, bound from Boston for southern ports, is safe and riding out the gale at sea.

The storm has subsided here. Vessels that sought the shelter of the harbors here and at Cape May, N. J., weathered the blow without any mishaps. The only disaster reported was the sinking of the coal laden barge

PAW PAW CALLED THE PERFECT DIGESTER

Scientist Explains Its Tonic Effect Upon the System, Saying It Makes Dyspepsia Impossible.

In condensed form, the following is what Professor Willard H. Morse, M. D., F. R. S., a Fellow of the London Society of Science, wrote to Robert Halford, an eminent therapist:

"Munyon's Paw Paw is scientific in that it properly presents to the medical profession and to the sick and suffering the active principle of the fruit of the carapapaya (Paw Paw) in its most eligible form."

"It accomplishes digestion surely and perfectly. It makes the most of the food. Makes the best of the food. Assures perfect assimilation. It perfects the several fluids that have to do with digestion and makes dyspepsia impossible."

"Munyon's Paw Paw disposes of the blood all faulty acids or poisons, because the blood made from the food treated by Paw Paw is a true vital fluid, which refuses to contain the acids, germs or poisonous taints, and as most diseases arise from impure blood, it makes all of them impossible."

"If you are nervous, if you are weak, if you have indigestion in any form, if you have stomach trouble, if you cannot sleep, try Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic. It has stopped these conditions for thousands and may for you. It costs $1 per bottle and is for sale at all first-class drug stores."

Court Action Will Follow Suspension Of Okla. Governor

Heaved to be a final fight to resist the charges upon which he has been impeached and suspended from office, the state Senate proceeded today with plans to arraign him for trial.

The probability loomed that court action would be resorted to by one side or the other, possibly both, before completion of the proceedings.

Governor Walton intended to go to his office as usual today but whether he would defy the resolution suspending him was problematical. He refused to answer a direct question as to whether he considered his official status, although he intimated that he would not resign.

Equally as reticent was M. E. Trapp, lieutenant governor designated by the Senate measure to assume the governor's duties during the period of suspension. His only statement was that he would abide by the law.

Close followers of the situation predicted that the governor's first move would take form in an action in the criminal court of appeals to nullify the impeachment proceedings.

He would have to stand it was said, on grounds that the legislature was called into special session solely to enact anti-Ku Klux Klan legislation. It is not empowered to take up other matters.

The Senate likewise is expected to seek recourse in the courts should Governor Walton fail to comply with the provisions of the suspension order.

Two separate bills of impeachment were filed with the Senate late yesterday by the lower House. The first charged that the governor diverted state funds to his own use by entering his private chauffeur on the state health department payrolls.

The other alleged he committed a constitutional offense by refusing to permit a grand jury meet after it had been summoned to review his official acts.

Twenty other counts contained in the committee prepare to be considered and voted upon by the House immediately. The Senate has announced it will be in readiness to receive further bills of impeachment should any of the remaining articles be accepted by the lower House.

All of these charges come under the general allegations of moral turpitude, incompetency, corruption in office and wilful neglect of duty.

Harvey Describes Position Of U. S. On Reparations

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Ambassador Harvey's speech last night in London was described in administration circles today as clearly stating once more the position of the Washington government with reference to the reparations battle.

It was emphasized that officials here had entertained some hope that abandonment by Germany of passive resistance in the Ruhr would open a way to adjustment of the reparations problem, but for a participation by the United States in such an adjustment was considered, however.

It was reiterated that the statement of the Washington attitude made by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech remained unchanged.

While the position of Germany has undergone various changes due to the occupation of the Ruhr and more recently to the Rhineland repudiation movement the factors that must govern the Washington government are regarded here as still precisely as stated by Mr. Hughes at New Haven.

to let him out, but to no avail. Finally prompted by the absence of the Republicans upstairs the correspondent pulled away the obstruction in the door and left the building. One minute later he heard the barricade replaced.

Herr Rühr then reappeared and offered the separatists one more chance to surrender peacefully within 15 minutes, promising that trucks would be furnished to take them away. The commissioner said he would personally accept them and guarantee protection from the mob.

As the 15 minutes he ticked off, Herr Rühr shouted to the separatists to be reasonable and surrender, respecting his promise of safety.

"Send us a truck and two Belgian soldiers and we'll go" called down one of the men. However, after a hurried consultation between the French and Belgian officers, the commissioner decided not to do it.

A few minutes later a separatist leaning from a window shouted: "We are looking to France and Belgium to help us out of this situation. We suffered for France and Belgium and we welcome anything they do, but we will have nothing to do with these Prussians."

The time had now expired and every one was waiting tensely. Finally a stenographer shouted from the window: "No negotiations."

Within the next few minutes a truck load of blue police arrived and clearing the approaches to the building, put a ladder up to the window.

The officers were beginning to ascend to halt. After a short conversation among the Allied officers, it was decided not to allow the police to storm the building as this would only involve more bloodshed.

Soon after eight o'clock in the evening the bested separatists received word that the republican movement had spread to Coblenz.

Their support rose considerably and they sent word to the German government officials if the latter wanted the building they would have to come and get it by force. Then Deckers, his company locked up for the night.

GAIN IN PLACES BUT LOSE SEVERAL TOWNS

(By The Associated Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 24.—A Rhineland republic has been proclaimed at Coblenz and a private government has been appointed, but a French newspaper puts it republicans seem lacking.

The situation of the separatists this morning is not brilliant. They made no headway yesterday. Rather the reverse. They appear definitely to have lost Aix La Chapelle and also their hold on other places, as the loyalist police reacted from the first surprise of the coup and realize that the French and Belgian authorities are perfectly sincere in their neutrality.

The separatists are opposed by the communists and the labor interests. At Wiesbaden the employees of the street car and gas works went on strike. The police also ceased to function.

The castle occupied by the separatists at Coblenz is not Ehrenbreitstein but a former imperial castle. When the police told the separatists to leave the building they did so without incident.

On the other hand the separatists seem to be in full control of Treves, Bonn and Duisburg.

The correspondent of the Le Matin at Aix La Chapelle quoted Leo Deckers, leader of the movement, as stating in the capture of that city on Sunday as saying:

"I believe that in eight days everything will have ended in our favor. The struggle is hard but revolution is not effected in a day. We have been successful in places where we expected stubborn resistance."

"Duisburg is in our hands. The Bonn Citadel of Prussian militarism is also ours. Crefeld is surrounded and Coblenz (yesterday) afternoon proclaimed the Rhineland republic."

ATTACKS REPULSED

(By The Associated Press.)

WIESBADEN, Oct. 24.—Several hundred separatists occupied the town hall here this morning, also seizing several other government buildings. Attacks on the police stations were repulsed.

The police disarmed street demonstrators and then cleared the thoroughfares. There was some firing, ten persons being wounded. The French have undertaken patrol duty.

Sensational Disclosures At Probe Of Veterans Bureau Are Expected

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Disclosures and action on the sensational in connection with the activities of the veterans bureau are forecast at the public hearings at the Senate committee investigation, and attack by members of Congress and former service men. The inquiry has been turned into the purchase of the private tuberculosis hospital at Laverne, California, and the alleged frauds practiced by some doctors over the country in the operation of the new practically abandoned policy of having dental work done by private dentists.

Former service men, doctors and other interested parties are expected to bring out other matters upon which they plan to offer testimony.

Investigation into the purchase of the Laverne hospital is still incomplete, but Major General O'Hara, special counsel for the committee, has read into the record a statement from a report from A. E. Grappier, chairman of the California district rehabilitation committee, regarding it.

He also has told the committee that there will be witnesses who will be called to testify to the matter.

The committee report read in June 1922 charges were made by Charles R. Forbes, then director of the bureau, in American Legion officials that the purchase of the Laverne hospital was "unauthorized by graft" and that the government was "defrauded" by the American Legion.

It was added that Mr. Forbes made no denial of the allegations at the time and that his whole justification was that he believed the property had been acquired and used for the purpose of a tuberculosis hospital.

There was no concern of the American Legion what was paid for the property or how the money was disposed of.

The committee was told by Dr. R. P. Chandler, officer in charge of dental surgery in the bureau, that there had been "innumerable" cases in which it was alleged that dentists had charged the government for work which they never had performed.

RHINELAND SEPARATISTS AT BONN ARE REPULSED

(By The Associated Press.)

BONN, Oct. 24.—The first assault of the Rhineland separatists on the town hall here was repulsed by the use of hose pipes and three of the attackers armed with revolvers were arrested.

Two hours later the French occupied the building on the pretext that a shot had been fired from within.

The staff of municipal employees was ordered to assemble in one room where everyone was searched for firearms, thus affording the separatists an opportunity for occupying the structure, which they did. A republic was immediately proclaimed and the magistrates and officials then departed.

478,700 Negroes Left 13 States In South Within Year

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A study of the northward migration of southern negroes made by the labor department indicates that 478,700 negroes left thirteen states in the year ending September 1. The figures were compiled from state, municipal and industrial sources. The migrations by states were as follows:

From Alabama 99,000; Florida 90,000; Mississippi 82,000; Georgia, 120,000; Virginia 10,000; North Carolina 25,000; South Carolina 25,000; Louisiana 15,000; Tennessee 10,000; Arkansas 5,000; Kentucky 2,500; Texas 2,000 and Oklahoma 1,000.

Southern observers have advised the labor department that during winter months, in their opinion, large numbers would return to the South.

Objection To Project Arises

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Railroads and several public utilities operating in the territory contiguous to the Virginia border have joined in a protest to Federal Power Commission against issuance of a license to the West Virginia Power company for a project on the New river, five miles from Hinton.

The commission has granted a preliminary permit with the statement that final action will depend upon a careful survey of the department to determine the effect upon the adjacent land. Plans filed by the power company include construction of a bank 14 feet high which would form a lake extending several miles in Virginia.

The Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio and Virginian Railroads have asserted this lake would overflow and irreparably damage their rights of way and power companies already in existence assert their sites would be submerged.

CO. LOANED FORBES $5,000

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Principals of the Thompson-Blair Company, loaned $5,000 to Charles R. Forbes while he was director of the Veterans Bureau at a time when the company was engaged in the construction of a government hospital, Elias H. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, a former agent of the company, testified today at the Senate investigation of the Veterans Bureau.

Mortimer said he personally delivered the $5,000 to Forbes at a party in Chicago and that Forbes merely thanked him for it.

"I asked him for a note for the amount," the witness continued, but he just laughed."

Dr. Chandler also testified of one case where the bureau had purchased a "gold brick" a batch of metal supposed to be gold and costing about $50 which had turned out to be some other metal.

General O'Hara read into the record a statement from a report from A. E. Grappier, chairman of the California district rehabilitation committee, regarding it.

He also has told the committee that there will be witnesses who will be called to testify to the matter.

The committee report read in June 1922 charges were made by Charles R. Forbes, then director of the bureau, in American Legion officials that the purchase of the Laverne hospital was "unauthorized by graft" and that the government was "defrauded" by the American Legion.

It was added that Mr. Forbes made no denial of the allegations at the time and that his whole justification was that he believed the property had been acquired and used for the purpose of a tuberculosis hospital.

There was no concern of the American Legion what was paid for the property or how the money was disposed of.

The committee was told by Dr. R. P. Chandler, officer in charge of dental surgery in the bureau, that there had been "innumerable" cases in which it was alleged that dentists had charged the government for work which they never had performed.

Dr. Chandler also testified of one case where the bureau had purchased a "gold brick" a batch of metal supposed to be gold and costing about $50 which had turned out to be some other metal.

WIFE SLAYER BETRAYS SELF BY RAVINGS

(By Chicago Tribune Herald)

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The mystery of the murder of a beautiful woman, her body cut in six pieces, found floating in the Seine near Melun, 40 miles from Paris, was cleared up today through the incoherent ravings of her husband when he fainted after viewing the remains.

Louis Dervaux, 36, a painter in Paris, accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mlle. Turin, appeared before the authorities in Melun following widespread publicity of the discovery of the cut-up body, asserting his wife had disappeared a month ago and his sister, reading accounts of the found body, wished to identify it.

They were taken to the morgue and M. Dervaux attempted to maintain his composure while examining the trunk and limbs—the head was still missing—but he was ghastly pale when he stammered "it is not my wife."

He then fainted. Sniffs of ether were necessary to restore him to consciousness. While delicious M. Dervaux raved.

"It is terrible. How could I do it? They will find me out."

The police heard his ravings and put him through a third degree. M. Dervaux confessed that he had strangled his wife when she admitted that he was not the father of her unborn child and then cut the body up with a bread knife.

COMMISSION TO REVISE CHARTER HOLDS SESSION

The Charter Revision Commission held a meeting last night for the purpose of hearing suggestions from citizens interested in reforms, some of which have already been discussed.

Two citizens appeared with recommendations for the commission. William B. Smith, emphasizing four important points in the consideration of a charter, and F. O. Kidd, a former council member, who presented suggestions in writing from W. R. Mitchell, also a former member of the council.

Commissioners attending the session were William P. Beatwright, chairman, D. E. Graham, Jr., E. H. Marshall, M. K. Harris and C. G. Holland. The commission adjourned after fixing a weekly meeting each Thursday until the charter shall have been completed and requesting R. P.

Moss, clerk of the commission to prepare copies of every suggestion so far made, these to be mailed to each member of the commission.

Mr. Smith spoke for nearly half an hour, stressing certain features of the charter which appeared to him to be of paramount importance. He expressed earnest belief in the principle of home rule and the placing of large powers in the hands of that body. He suggested that the council be given full play in the election of the city's technical officers, declaring that it was not every voter who had the opportunity to judge the capacity of men for the various technical city posts.

Mr. Smith expressed keen interest in the election of the school board. The state government, he said, had failed in its efforts to get the school boards out of politics. He was not prepared to say whether the people should elect the school board but judged that no harm could come of it if the people would center their attention on the question and vote with a view to their fitness. Mr. Smith deplored the multitude of elections and thought that the fewer there are the more the people will respond when election time comes. He also characterized that section of the charter which provides for bond issues and which spelt defeat of the recent school bond issue, as archaic. The freehold provision, he said, is not democratic. Finally the speaker declared in favor of a charter as short and to the point as possible with the elimination of extraneous matter. Summing up his remarks he emphasized the desirability of reposing full faith in the council to govern the city and the privilege to every voter to vote in any election and the elimination of class voting.

The letter from W. R. Mitchell which was read by the clerk urged the reestablishment of ward lines in the city giving each section of Danville an opportunity to vote for a representative in the council. Mr.

Mitchell held that the present method is undemocratic and that the old six ward regime should be reinstituted. Mr. Kidd who bore the message to the commission fully concurred in Mr. Mitchell's beliefs.

Mr. Beatwright expressed thanks to the two gentlemen who had spoken on charter suggestions which, he said, would receive consideration.

A SHINING EXAMPLE OF RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE

A few days ago a body of Virginia churchmen came to Danville to hold their annual conference for the discussion of denominational matters. They came here largely to stimulate and to offer inspiration to the church of their denomination founded in this city a little more than a year ago. The churchmen found that the local congregation, not having the means to provide a church of their own, were occupying the house of worship of a congregation with widely diverging creedal beliefs, and that this meeting place had been put at the disposal of the recently formed congregation for as long a period as they wished to use it and for no pecuniary compensation. We refer to the action of the congregation of the Beth Sholem Synagogue in offering their meeting place to the local congregation of the Lutheran church, for a period of five years or until such time that the Lutherans are enabled to build their own church, a promised development within the next few years.

We can recall no similar chapter in the history of Virginia's religious history and relationship as this. It stands out as a splendid and refreshing example of broad religious tolerance in an age when credal jealousies and bigotry play a silent role in mundane affairs. It is true that the two congregations which are mutually benefiting from this new church relationship are small. Their size however is beside the point when the principle of religious freedom is considered and when one grasps the full meaning of a Jewish congregation of strict tenets recognizing openly the right of the Lutheran Synod to practice a different doctrine under the roof tree of the synagogue.

HIS TIME APPROACHES

Many political dynasties have gone to their doom because the regnant power talked too much. The American people have long been convinced that silence would be a golden attribute for their public officials. At last, we are experiencing an era of silence. President Coolidge has not said a thing since he assumed office. Various statements, it is claimed, the president's ear, have rolled forth from the White House with the confident feeling that they were able to read his lips. But the public as a whole has yet to hear an authoritative utterance from the chief executive, except on the subject of prohibition enforcement. It has been stated that the president would re-submit President Harding's World Court recommendation to the Senate. It has also been stated that Mr. Coolidge was opposed to the World Court. Mr. Coolidge is about as friendly as the soldiers' bones to the president will sign the measure. Opponents say he will not back a bill on the subject. The president says nothing.

There is a variety of other policies which affect the national government. Each of these has been widely discussed. The president is not a part in the discussion. The public is convinced that its officials should think well before they speak. But it is no longer convinced that its officials must be forever silent. The proper course for an executive is to think well and wisely, then to speak. Otherwise, he will become open to the charge of being always on the fence. President Coolidge's time to speak is approaching. On prohibition, his time to speak is already here.

ASPECTS OF ISOLATION

There are people who deny, and possibly believe, that the world is not really inter-related in economic and social interests. This is the basis of the creed of isolation. It is a fallacy, and that can be proved to the satisfaction of everyone except those who form their opinions not on fact but on prejudice.

A very simple current illustration serves to illustrate the truth. China is the home of many ancient handicrafts of great skill. These have persisted although recent complications of living have made the returns uncertain and have driven many who formerly would have followed these skilled crafts into the already swollen ranks of unskilled and poorly paid labor. Over Europe and the United States sweeps a craze for an ancient Chinese game. Not only must the idea of the game itself be adopted, but the implements must come from China, and must be of carved ivory. The result is the greatest revival of ivory carving in the history of China, establishments working day and night to fill the orders. While that is a conspicuous example for the moment, it is being repeatedly intermingled with reference to other interests and other lands daily. Isolation no longer exists except in certain wards of the asylums for the insane.

TAXPAYERS NEED A SWIFT KICK

According to the latest census bureau figures there are now 2,700,000 public servants upon the national, state, country and municipal payrolls of this nation. The salary bill for this army totals $3,500,000,000 a year. In addition to this host of officials, our various subdivisions of government support an additional 670,000 men and women, pensioners or other inactive beneficiaries who draw $320,000,000 more each year from public treasuries. Thus we have a grand total of 3,400,000 persons taking nearly $4,000,000,000 a year from the pockets of the taxpayers of the nation, an average cost of $34 a year for every man, woman, and child in the United States. We pay it—if not directly, then it is added to things you buy. It means an average of $160.00 per year for every family in the United States. Furthermore, this number of public servants is constantly growing. The army is being augmented continually by politicians, whose constant effort is to make two government jobs grow where one grew before. The question of service, of necessity, does not enter into the matter at all. These worthies make government serve their own ends for value received politically is the basis on which they operate. The result can not help but be an ever increasing amount of patronage, and ever growing number of political plums and the building of political machines financed by the public purse. A situation such as this has developed as the result of but one thing—the lack of close interest and attention on the part of the people in their government. The taxpayers, the backbone of this vicious system of political patronage, have virtually surrendered government to the professional politicians. The taxpayers foot the bill—and why shouldn't they? If they don't take interest enough in their own government to insist on economy, to demand service rather than politics, it is fitting that they should pay. The overburdened taxpayer needs no sympathy. He needs a swift kick between his hip pockets.

YOUR HEALTH
By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

Thousands of persons are afflicted from time to time, and many others almost constantly, by what is commonly called backache. It is a favorite theme of the patent medicine "barkers." You are almost convinced by their literature in spite of your own good common sense, that something is surely the matter with you. There are times, when certain wasting diseases, severe attacks of colds or downright weariness of body cause pain in some degree or other in your back. Careless, indifferent slouching posture will often cause back-muscles to weaken and ache to such an extent that some mechanical support is necessary.

But don't get scared or imagine every time you get a "crick" in your back or the nerves, muscles and ligaments seem to be so tired you can hardly stand, that something is surely wrong. It is usually due to a temporary fatigue of the muscles of the hip bone and sacrum, at the base of the spine that causes a large number of backaches, and not rheumatism, whatever that is. It is usually due to the lack of proper posture, and may be due to bad sitting or standing posture. In correct standing posture you are a pole as straight as a string. The body should be held apart, with heels about six inches apart and toes about four inches apart.

NIGRO IS ARRESTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(The Associated Press.)—A Negro, today told, into custody by the U. The man, who is being held in a federal prison here, is being held in a federal prison here.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, October 24.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—What is the Difference? Mr. H. G. Wells states that it took thousands of years for the human beings to grasp the fact of the difference between day and night.

The earliest humans took little or no notice of the sun and stars. It was only through the slow process of centuries that man began to grasp the fact that darkness followed light at regular intervals. Gradually it was noticed that the presence of the sun was attended by light and the presence of the moon and stars by darkness.

The concept of time was born. This may have been the greatest step in the history of humankind. Think a moment of the man who allows himself ten minutes to take a walk to catch a train two miles away. This train runs on an even closer schedule, and its passenger can in a day keep many appointments all timed to the minute.

But these are differentiations in time only. There are differences of heat and cold, of strong and weak, of good and bad, of old and new—hundreds and hundreds of them.

When you hear it said of a man, "He is a good judge of men," you know this means that he sees differences in men that other men do not see.

To an American most Japanese look alike. To a Japanese most Americans look alike. To a city-bred child all horses look alike. To a non-smoker all cigars look alike. Yet any cigar smoker can see differences in the shape, size and color that his wife can never see, and any cigar maker can show the smoker differences in several cigars of the same brand that have been invisible to him for years.

FOLLOW—The policy of "follow the crowd"—doing something just because the mob does it—is criticized by Count Ilya Tolstoy.

Majority is a fool policy. But the crowd has an uncomfortable way of turning on and destroying anyone who doesn't agree with the herd. Failure in life usually is due to failure to conform to the standards and psychology of the rank and file.

BEAUTY—Man is scientifically more beautiful than women, according to some of the doctors acting as judges in pick out Boston's perfect lady.

They advance the theory that woman's famed superiority of beauty is a matter of makeup. Then, too, they claim, the new standard of beauty is health and modern men average healthier than women.

A minority opinion.

SWALLOWED UP

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

Illustrated by R. W. Satterfield

BEGIN HERE TODAY—Hope Ranger is held prisoner in a sanitarium owned by a group of criminals. She makes friends with another prisoner, Dr. Kelsey. The two escape from the hospital in the superintendent's car.

The car is wrecked and Hope is recaptured, but Kelsey escapes and joins James Charlie, adventurer, in an attempt to rescue Hope before the abductors have time to kill her. Alderman Higgins tells Dr. Kelsey, superintendent that the girl must be killed. Copley, in love with Kelsey, kills him in a jealous rage. Hope is taken in a car by Higgins, his intention being to have her killed. To his consternation Higgins finds his car in charge of Charlie and Kelsey.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY—CHAPTER XXX—The straggling procession of Main Streets, which is the Merriest road, was almost ended; that white ribbon of macadam and oyster-shell, with one village shired on to another as it follows the windings of the South Shore, was about to fray out into the asphalt threads of the city.

Charlie's mercurial spirit was overcast with misgiving, shadowed by the perturbing claims of his responsibility.

"James!" He pointed to a hill-side ahead, with scattered lights over it, as he turned back to Hope and Kelsey. "I'm going to stop here and telephone. And you'd better tag William the Silent there, and sit on him, while I'm about it. We don't want to attract such attention as he'd love to create, if he had half a chance."

Choosing an inconspicuous place to stop beyond the Peace Monument, Charlie drew up to the curb and hurried into a drug store. After an interval, he reappeared, much of his customary jauntiness restored.

"You can draw your own conclusions, when I tell you I was exchanging a few remarks with a lawyer whose name begins with H."

Charlie was back in his seat again by this time. "We've got to be on our way now."

But when he attempted to drive on, the starter wouldn't work. For several minutes he fussed with it, following various suggestions from Kelsey and Hope; but it was plainly out of order, and he was anxious to avoid further delay.

Muttering anathemas on the bulky device, Charlie clambered down again, and went to the front of the car to crank up.

His experience at cranking had been hitherto confined to flivvers. He did not reckon on the superior horsepower of the limousine. On the second revolution, the engine backfired, hurling him into the middle of the street.

leaped at Higgins, and riding him, thrust two or three square bits of pasteboard through the front window.

Shuffling them rapidly, Charlie sang out in triumph. "I've got it! Keep on moving, Sister."

He held it out to show the signature of the Police Commissioner, as an angry traffic cop came bellying toward them; and, as if by magic, the way opened.

"And now for home!" breathed Hope.

"No, this way out!" Charlie waved imperatively to the left on Forty-fourth Street. "Don't think that Bill's Sunday School class will lay down as easy as that. I'll bet that the telephone wires are buzzing right now at the uptown bunch. There'll be a gang at either end of the block where your father lives, waiting for us. I'm going to take you to some place I know on the West Side until I'm sure of a clear track."

So, under his direction, Hope drove to the apartment on Central Park West, which housed the Greenbergs. Mr. and Mrs. Greenberg, the Princess and Miss McCarthy, the ladies in evening wraps, were disappearing through the doors, while Mr. Leffer was holding a light to the cigar of Mr. Dave Greenberg, who was just about to drive the family car to the garage.

"Greenberg! Wait!" Charlie bailed; and jumping from the limousine as Hope drew up, rushed toward the two men.

"Listen fast, boys," he said. "We've got Hope Ranger here, and want your bus to get her home. Greenberg, you drive us. There's a crowd of gunmen after us. Leffer, are you game to scout our car four or five blocks away, anywhere, and leave it?"

For the rest of his life Charlie retained an inordinate respect for those two young men. They took the situation standing. No running around in circles of excitement. No fool questions. They had been in the war, and understood the value of quick thinking and immediate action in a surprise attack.

She spoke in one breath, and with brevity.

"Sure," said Mr. Leffer.

"Get in," said Mr. Greenberg. Hope who was close behind Charlie sprang into the Greenberg car, and Charlie and Kelsey, aided by Mr. Leffer, dragged out Higgins, a dead weight on their hands, and hustled him in after her. Kelsey followed, and Charlie scrambled up beside the driver.

Higgins stretched out his hand and waved at Charlie's arm. "A hundred and fifty thousand a piece, if you let me go."

"Why, Bill," Charlie spoke in pained surprise, "you're a piker after all. Our price is just double whatever you've got."

Greenberg swung into Fifth Avenue, and Charlie drew his first long breath since the last started. Also for the first time in his adventurous career, he felt a warm, emotional regard for the police.

They were sprinkled up and down the thoroughfare, guarding it for several blocks from the Ranger home.

The long strain was over for all of them. Kelsey sitting beside Hope, felt a warm relief and at the same time an infinite sadness.

The curtain was falling, and his heart ached. She was safe among those who loved her, a great release slipping into another world than his. He was an unknown, poor young man.

Already the car was drawing toward the sidewalk.

"I want to say goodby before you reach home." His voice was shaky. She loved him; so immediately she divined his trouble.

"George!" She looked at him with a quizzically mischievous smile. "I didn't know you were shy. Are you afraid of my father and mother?"

It is the right to tell the adventure's over." He said, stoically calm. "I couldn't take advantage of your youth."

Her lips brushed his cheek.

"Our adventure is just beginning," she murmured. "A beautiful one this time."

Foresight or Hindsight?

Do you know the Astors, New York's richest family and largest real estate owners, began by buying a vacant lot, and selling and buying again?

Do you know buying real estate is a great deal better for a salaried man than banking his savings, because he can draw his money out every time he thinks he needs a five or ten.

Do you know buying real estate teaches the man who invests economy, and in fact, it makes him save money when he would not do it in any other way?

The world hears of some men only two times in their lives—birth and death. That's the men who put off buying property in growing towns until the other fellow gets the bargains. The slow man's life is devoted to enriching a few landlords. Then he shuffles off without leaving a ripple.

The foresighted fellow buys property on easy payments. If the real "man" is in him he gets in some way.

Inside Dope On Notre Dame And Their Practices

By LAWRENCE PERRY
(Copyright, 1923, by The Bee)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 24.—Dope professors accompanied the football eleven to Princeton and conducted recitations through the trip. This is the usual practice here and results have always been worth while. One wonders if in this fact there does not lie at least part of the explanation of the success which athletes of this institution enjoy upon the football field.

In other words Notre Dame athletes are no less students than other undergraduates. To be eligible to play football or other games they must pass seventy per cent tests and it is interesting to know that these tests are held twice monthly.

It is a pleasant place, Notre Dame. Situated in beautiful rolling country outside of South Bend it has the rural environment that makes Princeton so delightful. Students live in seven dormitories which at Notre Dame are called halls and each hall has an athletic team separate from the university. Teams are developed in all sports and the intramural contests held throughout the year excite interest no less keen than the inter-collegiate games.

For the varsity teams eligibility rules are very strict. The western conference code is employed together with restrictions in use among the more idealistic Eastern institutions. Inasmuch as Notre Dame's preparatory school is located at the University, the Rockne football system is applied there which means for one thing that every year about thirty per cent of the 1800 students are who are proteges and about 9 per cent are proteges. Knute Rockne himself is a protegee.

Working in conjunction with Rockne, holding up his hands in every way Notre Dame has done a magnificent work in the West in adopting a rigid code of athletic morals and forcing them upon other institutions of the West. Rockne's early ambition was to make of Notre Dame an example of athletic standards that would bear comparison with those obtaining at the best universities in the country and this he has achieved.

For the football teams, instructors out West will tell you that Rockne keeps about two jumps ahead of most of them. He has a constructive football mind, is a wonderful strategist and a profound thinker. At the same time he has not overlooked the best that has been evolved in gridiron tactics throughout the country and he is the first to admit that he owes a lot to Glenn Warner and in lesser degree to other coaches east and west. But with him it has been a case of selection to fill out his own ideas which are many and varied and consistently sound.

He is an amiable autocrat at Notre Dame. His word is law in athletics but his rule is largely a rule of love and respect. He is a self-made man, coming to Notre Dame without a cent and at the start paying his way through the performance of janitor duties. He is magnetic and in personality thoroughly delightful. He mien on the practice field is decisive, but always quiet, always dignified and at least part of his great success is the ability to impart to his men at once just what he wants them to do, just how and why.

Living together around the attractive campus his football men are al-

W. AND L. TEAM PRACTICING FOR CLASH WITH TECH

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 23.—Facing a week of hard work in preparation for the Virginia Tech clash this week end at Lynchburg, the entire varsity squad of the DePauw gridders reported in near perfect condition.

At this afternoon's practice session and were prepared to absorb a great deal of knowledge from their mentors. DePauw coach, Maryland Saturday and plainly told his charges what is facing them October 27th. Whether or not they will be prepared for it depends largely on the results of this week's practices. Taking the backs in hand, the ex-Pitt star drove them unrelentingly for three hours, drilling them in interference, breaking up passes, and other defensive tactics.

Line coach, Smith at the other end of the field had his charges hitting the bucking machine, leading interference, and opening up holes in the scrum line. The beginning of every week since the season opened, DePauw found DePauw stressing the fundamentals, and the present week opening has been no exception. The Gridders doubtless will have a fair line of information on their opponents in Saturday's battle, but whether or not mere information will help materially remains to be seen. Knowing is one thing, and stopping another.

"Terrible Terry," who has been on the sidelines nursing an injured shoulder since the first week of practice, has donned the mole skins again, and apparently has suffered no untoward injuries in his development. The rangy tackle, carrying one hundred and ninety pounds will add considerable strength to the forward rush line, in the event he is able to go against the Gobblers' new half-back and Stemmons, tackle, both of whom have been suffering from minor injuries were at their regular places in today's scrimmage, and unless untoward injuries develop in this week's practices, DePauw will have his full strength to usher against the Cubbage eleven. Every minute is being utilized this week, for on the practice game, on a measure, depends the success of the season from a Washington and Lee stand point.

SUSPENSION OF LYNCH HAS NOT BEEN LIFTED

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The New York State Athletic Commission today refused to lift the suspension of Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, despite testimony of the titleholder's physician and trainer, that a shoulder injury caused cancellation of his title bout with Joe Burman, of Chicago, last Friday night. Lynch was suspended when he failed to fight Burman and will remain under official ban, it was announced, until he fulfills his contract with the Chicagoan.

BROTHER OF SARAZEN IS BOUGHT BY FARRELL

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Frank Farrell, New York turfman, has purchased for close to a record price a full brother of Sarazen, Mrs. Vanderbilt's unbeaten two year old, from Colonel Phil Chinn, Kentucky breeder. Farrell was understood to have given $15,000 and two young mares, the equivalent of about $25,000 altogether for the gelding, which is by Hightime-Rusbox.

ANALYSIS OF BABE RUTH'S BATTING DISCLOSES A REMARKABLE RECORD

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—An analysis of the batting performances of Babe Ruth this season discloses that the big slugger compiled one of the most remarkable, if not the greatest record in major league history, despite the fact that he failed to lead the American League hitters and was only able to tie Cy Williams, of the Phillies, for the home-run, leadership, with 41 circuit blows, 18 behind the world's record he set in 1921.

The complete record of the Babe, however, and the story of his versatile greatness—the work that earned him the crown of the most valuable American League player—shows him as a player who was not only able to prove the real merit of his performance, it is necessary only to compare his work with that of other halcyon days of the diamond.

The best batting mark now recorded in the baseball books is .492 made by James E. O'Neill while playing with the St. Louis team of the old American Association back in 1887. In attaining that high mark O'Neill was aided by the rules of that year, which provided that base on balls should be figured as basehits also; that when a batter was hit by a pitched ball he was accredited with a base hit. Even with these advantages O'Neill must have been a great hitter. Yet it is certain many bases on balls figured in the compilation of O'Neill's .492 mark.

Unofficial records for the 1723 season show that Babe Ruth participated in the entire schedule of the Yankees, 152 games, a record in itself for Ruth.

These figures also show that he was at bat 320 official times; that he scored 151 runs and amassed 205 safe hits giving him a batting average of .394.

In addition to this remarkable batting average, Ruth was passed 171 times. If these were figured as base hits and counted in his times at bat as was the case with O'Neill's record, they would give Ruth a total of 651 times at bat and 376 hits for a batting average of .544 or 52 points better than the record of the old St. Louis slugger.

Another phase of Ruth's work as a batsman which undoubtedly created a new major league record, was the number of times he reached base during the 1923 season. In addition to his 205 hits and his 171 passes there was other times when he got either by forcing a runner, a fielder's choice, by being hit by a pitched ball or through an error on the part of the defense. Ruth reached first base a fraction under three times for each of the 152 games during the season.

Dark Boys To Get Big Dates From Rickard

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—All the white heavyweight of note having booked passage for fashionable watering places, intent on a season of undisturbed calm and comfort, the Rickard who is utterly ill at ease when not signing some body to meet somebody else, has turned his promotional thoughts to the colored gent.

Rickard has two fairly important brawls tentatively lined up, both involving pugilists of pronounced shades. Battling Sikl, the spectacular, and at times saturated Senegalese, will be pitted against Kid Norfolk. The Battler and the Kid, being artists at heart, will fight for the sheer sake of fighting.

Battler has no title to speak of, and the Kid is untested. However, Mr. Rickard's hot shot in the assorted hues tournament will be between Harry Willis and Bill Tate, lean stevedore who has been writing caustic letters to Jack Dempsey for three years. A considerable number of normal appearing citizens have the notion that Willis is not exactly a champion.

Waiting Game Didn't Pay. Until very recently Willis had the idea if he waited long enough Dempsey would come out to his cabin and pay him a nice sum of money. He probably brought the title along with him, newly polished and nicely shined up. It appears that he misjudged the champion's capacity for waiting, and differently these days. He's fighting—and eating.

Tate will probably give him a hard fight. Tate, if he is in shape, is a large, powerful man, and is capable of a championship possibility. Tate is big and strong and almost as capable as Willis. It will not be the first time that the two giant negroes have clashed between the two giant negroes. Tate won on a foul. The circumstances were highly pungent to say the least. The customers' wrath was whipped up to a fever. To avoid a messy aftermath the two agreed to fight it over a week later to a free fight.

Your average fighter, as a rule, does not thrill to the prospect of a contest of this nature. But this fight was an epic of action and savagery. Willis and Tate regard each other with unalloyed distaste, and that night bad blood ran down the center of the ring. Tate cut a rash under Willis' left eye and knocked him down. Willis came fast at the end and the fight was called even.

Willis did not show much against Tate that entitled him to profound consideration as a Dempsey opponent. He scored often with his right hand and was particularly effective in the clinches. But his generalship was bad and at times he lost his head completely. Had he stayed Tate away in that fight, it is probable that he would have won. The assignment might have come to him instead of Gibbons.

The New Orleans man is still pretty much of a puzzle. We don't think he has a whole lot of class. Certainly he isn't the battler he was five years ago, when the mighty Langford fell before his smashing attack. And the fact that he has been a good fighter against Dempsey, Carpenter had a better right and it was important against the champion. So was Fipps.

PAPYRUS ON HIS WAY BACK HOME

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Papyrus, English derby winner, tonight is on his way home after a three thousand mile journey in quest of international thoroughbred lands that proved in vain Saturday when the American star, Zev, trounced the invading three year old in a mile and a half race at Belmont Park.

Accompanying Papyrus aboard the Aquatania were his trainer, Basil Jarvis, Jockey Steve Donoghue, others of his retinue, and a party of British sportsmen, who came over for the $100,000 March 24th.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 23.—Zev, the conqueror of the English derby winner, Papyrus, and My Own, Rear Admiral Grady's son's crack three year old will positively appear in the great championship stake, to be run at Latonia on November 3, a telegram received by Latonia racing officials from Colonel Matt J. The championship closed with 76 nominations, included in which are the greatest of the three year olds on the American turf.

NO WOMAN RULES IN GOLF WORLD

(By The Associated Press)

This business of being an "invincible" in golf is a glamorous thing, but it lacks the good, old-fashioned, home-cooked qualities of permanency. Misses Travis, Hagan and Evans, giants of the game, resigned from the order years ago.

Now the dear ladies are finding that invincibility is something that does not exist.

They used to call Alexa Stirling the invincible champion. Alexa won three national titles consecutively, establishing a record in this respect. She was esteemed as the country's most notable contributor to the feminine end of the sport.

"It will be years before her class," the experts said.

Hardly had the last faint echo of those words settled in the Valley of Prophesy when Marion Hollins came along and dethroned the invincible woman's champion.

And the next year, Glenna Collett, "an even greater player than Miss Stirling," came along and won the title.

Glenna was but a mere maid. She had something of the few women players ever develop—unusual leight off the tee. And the rest of her games was proportionately strong.

Here was an invincible for you. Certainly it is a long time before the game produced another woman player capable of matching shots with the brilliant Providence star.

But it wasn't. Glenna lasted just one year. A month ago she abdicated in favor of Edith Cummings of Chicago. Oddly enough, Miss Cummings isn't being pointed to as an invincible. She is characterized simply as a sound player with a fine fighting heart. No claims for overwhelming ability are being made for her.

This is sensible. Golf—all departments of it—is too elusive a proposition, and there are too many topnotchers playing the game to permit a monopoly of honors either by the horrid males or the well-manned ladies of the links. Miss Cummings will probably have a little success in defending her crown next year as Miss Collett met this year.

Miss Collett, incidentally, has just caused to look back on the past season with weary, care-worn eyes. What many predicted would be her best season on the links turned out to be her worst.

She was defeated four times in individual tournament matches, a rather sizable number of defeats to check against a national champion's name.

Mrs. Caleb Fox, 63-year-old grandmother, trounced her in the south early last spring. Miss Cummings beat her in the Buffalo invitational. Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck trimmed her in the national, and Anita Lihme of Chicago, practically an unknown, ushered her out of the sitting room in the recent Berthelby Cup tournament.

SISLER HOPES TO PLAY AGAIN

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—George Sisler, who last Saturday was named manager for the St. Louis Americans, today asserted there were no radical changes contemplated in the personnel of the team, but added he intended to start "intensive educational training" wherever a man can be improved. He stated he hoped to play next season, but that he would not do so unless his vision was improved sufficiently to permit him to "do it well."

Candidates For Baseball Managers Are Coming Out

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The Boston Red Sox, full under this season, have furnished candidates to fill two managerial vacancies in the American League. Washington, Chicago—one prospective vacancy in the National League at Boston.

The candidates are Frank Chance and Jimmy Burke, manager and coach, respectively of the Red Sox this season, who have been displaced by Lee Fohl, former St. Louis pilot, under the new Boston ownership.

The post which Fohl left at St. Louis and which Jimmy Austin has been filling temporarily, will be occupied by George Sisler next season, but as yet the White Sox and Senators have signed no new leaders.

Chance, who himself admits having two big league offers under consideration, has mentioned particularly for the Washington job vacated by Donie Bush, but his name also has been connected with the Chicago berth, where Kid Gleason resigned in discouragement over his club's showing.

Eddie Collins, Harry Hooper and Ed Walsh also loom as possible successors to Gleason. And now that Burke, who formerly was at the helm for the St. Louis Browns, has been released, he to, may be in line for either post.

Both Chance and Burke enjoy the favor of baseball followers generally and their popularity with Boston fandom gave rise to much comment as to the advisability of the move by which they were allowed to leave the city.

Boston baseball experts agreeing they obtained from inferior material the best results possible.

Rumors persist that President Christy Matheson is to make a change whereby Manager Fred Mitchell will be released or asked to assume his former role of coach or pitching, capitalizing the Boston popularity of Chance or Burke by engaging the one or the other to assume Mitchell's position as manager of the Braves. George Burns, veteran Cincinnati outfielder, also has been reported as a prospective Braves manager.

BATTLE IS RESTRICTED

The preliminary tournaments, one in the East and the other in the Middle West, will be conducted by the Professional Golfers' Association.

TRINITY WILL PLAY VIRGINIA
NEXT SATURDAY

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 23.—The 21 to 0 defeat at the hands of William and Mary in Rocky Mount Saturday was by no means encouraging to followers of the Trinity Blue Devil team.

With only a week of hard practice to regain the attack that annihilated Guilford and Randolph-Macon and held Carolina to a slight margin, the Blue Devils are hard at it on Hanes Field preparing for the game with Virginia in Charlottesville next Saturday. This game will mark the first time Trinity has met the Virginians in over thirty years, and followers of both teams are looking forward to the game with interest. The Blue Devils probably will face the University with the strongest line-up since the beginning of the season. One thing is certain: The Methodists will show Virginia a harder tussle than they did William and Mary.

Trinity suffered only minor casualties in the game Saturday. Porter, guard, sustained a slight concussion of the brain but is already greatly improved. Lagerstedt, got several painful bruises but will be in condition in a day or two. Taylor, who was shifted from guard to tackle Saturday, acquitted himself admirably and probably will play tackle for the rest of the season.

MRS. R. W. GARNETT IS OPERATED UPON IN RICHMOND, VA.

A message received yesterday afternoon from Dr. R. W. Garnett, city health officer at Richmond, was to the effect that Mrs. Garnett underwent an operation in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning and that indications were that it had been successful. The operation was a critical one but it was said that she had rallied and that her complete recovery was anticipated. Mrs. Garnett has been in bad health for several months and not many weeks ago underwent one operation in Richmond which was a preliminary to the more difficult one performed yesterday.

GROWING FINE TOBACCO IN EASTERN CAROLINA

KINSTON, Oct. 23.—Fine tobacco is being produced almost on the ocean's shore in Eastern Carolina. Thousands of pounds of the golden leaf are being received here from Onslow, Carteret and other counties of the coastal fringe. A thousand pounds produced by L. T. Bowden of Camp Green, sold here recently at an average price of 25 cents, according to tobaccoists. This was several cents above the market average. The district along the line between Lenoir and Duplin counties is claimed to be growing the finest bright leaf in the world, though Duplin has been a tobacco county a comparatively short time. Craven and Beaufort are among the tide-water counties now producing millions of pounds annually.

HENDERSON SALES REACH THEMILLION-POUND MARK

HENDERSON, Oct. 23.—Sales on the Henderson tobacco market for the season passed the 1,000,000-pound mark today with a break believed to eclipse any since the opening day on September 25. The amount was believed to be well beyond the 100,000-pound figure. The quality of the tobacco offered appeared to be somewhat above the previous average in grade brought in, and a good price was expected. It was believed that the greater part of the day would be necessary to dispose of the break. Last week's sales amounted to 340,454 pounds, which brought $67,259.81, for an average of $19.75 per hundred pounds. This made sales for the season through last Friday, but not including Monday, October 22, amount to 911,539 pounds, which has been sold for $183,996.80, for an average of $18.94 for the season. Little by little the prices are gradually climbing to a higher average, and if expectations of higher types of the weed for the present week are realized, the average may go well on toward the 20-cent figure for the season.

DAILY PUZZLE

During the spring of 1918, two chess players held a game by mail, each sending his move by letter. Each sent two letters a week for 12 weeks. Two years later, in 1920, another game was played, each sending one letter a week for 30 weeks. In 1922, they used postal cards, and each sent two cards a week for 25 weeks. In which year did they spend the most for postage, and in which year the least?

In New Brunswick, "left hand turns" were of no annoyance for the simple reason that the law compelled automobilists to drive on the left side of the road. Thus the lines of traffic followed the heavy-lined arrows. The "left turn" corresponded to the "right turn" in the United States, and the motorist's difficulties arose when he attempted a "right-hand turn." The lines of traffic are indicated by the heavy arrows.

WHERE WILL SCOTCH COME FROM WHEN SCOTLAND GOES DRY?

JEFFERY FARNOL

By MAURICE HENLE
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Haig and Haig, well-known Scotch team, will have retired from the bonny wet footlights in another generation. Johnnie Walker, also a Scotch comedian of no mean ability once you get him started, will by that time be a fit candidate for the Old Men's Home. That's the prediction brought to this country by Jeffery Farnol, famous English weaver of romantic novels. Scotland, he thinks, stands a good chance of going dry. Maybe within a generation. "America," says this novelist, "is pointing the way. As she is leading, so will the world follow. The prohibition act here in the United States, while probably too extreme, is but an indication of the way the wind of the world is blowing. The entire world will be dry some day. Sooner probably than either the American or English public thinks." And Farnol is wondering where Scotch whisky will come from when Scotland goes dry. For he is no prohibitionist. "Pussfoot Johnson is concentrating on Scotland," he says. "And I really believe Scotland will go dry before England. We English are beer-drinking people. But the Scotch—they will have their tea!"

NEWS OF ROCKY MOUNT

ROCKY MOUNT, Va., Oct. 23.—Sales of tobacco on the local cooperative warehouse has increased over last week with improvement in offering and farmers are satisfied with advances. Still farmers in every section of the county are signing up with this organization. There is still a number of farmers who have not stripped their tobacco, being busy sowing wheat and making use of the weather in housing peas, hay, harvesting corn and numerous other things on the farm.

The volume of tobacco sales on the local auction house floor last week was better than the previous week. No price change was noted on the poorer grades, though on the medium and better grades there were some improvements. Mrs. G. W. Hooker of Roanoke was the honoree of a delightful informal auction bridge party Saturday evening given her by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Morris in her home on East Court street. Two tables were engaged in playing, after several interesting rubbers, delicious refreshments were served. Those playing were: Mrs. Hooker, guest of honor; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. H. PRES. OF SPAIN IS WITHDRAWING TROOPS RAPIDLY

MADRID, Oct. 23.—President Primo de Rivera withdrew 11,000 troops from Morocco last week. Early in November he will repatriate another large contingent, and the outgoing Spanish expeditionary force of 125,000 will be halved by spring. The military directorate has definitely abandoned the policy of pacifying the protectorate with home troops and has turned over the job to Raulsull, a bandit. The budget of 1922 and 1923 of 200,000,000 pesetas for the Morocco campaign will be halved in the next fiscal year. If the rebels and Abdel Krim can be pacified through negotiations Spain will recognize the next Sultan. Raulsull already has persuaded Abdel Malek, one of the most powerful chiefs, to join the Spaniards and his emissaries already are conferring with Abdel Krim. Spain will provide Raulsull with the funds and munitions to equip an army against the chiefs refusing to submit, but it is doubtful whether Spanish troops will be engaged.

DIVORCED FROM TALLEST COP

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Sweeping that her husband, Patrolman William Metzelaar, New York's tallest policeman, tried to smother her with a pillow and threw a knife and fork at her and had turned his attentions to another woman, Mrs. Edith Metzelaar of Brooklyn, obtained a separation, with alimony of $5 weekly from Supreme Court Justice McCrate, in Brooklyn, today. Metzelaar, who is six feet, six inches tall, appeared in court in uniform to deny the charges and to assert that his wife had on three occasions sold out their household furniture without consulting him. He also denied her allegation that he married her in 1917 solely to avoid the draft, stating that a physical defect caused his rejection from the service. To his wife's charge that he had refused to go walking with her, Metzelaar declared that she would not go out with him because he was so tall and she so short that people referred to them as "Mutt and Jeff."

GRANT HEARING NEXT SATURDAY

MARTINSVILLE, Va., Oct. 23.—The trial of John Grant charged with killing Robert Fowles will be held here on Saturday. Commonwealth's Attorney J. R. Taylor has made an investigation of the shooting and has summoned witnesses to appear for the state. It now appears that the shooting affray at Mountain Valley had reference to a still and that Fowles was engaged in two fist fights during the course of the day before he was killed. It appears that he had no difficulty in the forenoon with Grant and that during this encounter he sustained a scalp wound on the forehead from the butt of a revolver. Fowles then went to see Dr. Richardson with the intention of having his wound dressed. The physician, however, while in that vicinity, it is declared, a controversy developed with Buster Lawrence. The two came to blows and were separated by Tom Johnson, who had accompanied Fowles. This had hardly been done when Grant appeared on the scene, pistol in hand, and shot Fowles. It is understood that the men had been drinking.

ALLEGED SLAYER CASE CONTINUED

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 23.—Joseph Enoch, charged with the murder of Ceta Shevick, was arraigned in Hustings' Court Monday before Judge D. C. Richardson, Attorney Harry M. Smith, Jr., made a motion for continuance, and after a conference with Commonwealth's Attorney Dave Satterfield, November 20 was set for the hearing. Coroner Whitfield was called as a witness Monday. Enoch was present in court, but was not called to the stand. Detective-Sergeants Smith and Gentry, who have handled the case, were also present. Attorney Satterfield stated that Enoch would be tried first on the murder indictment.

According to the evidence advanced in a preliminary hearing, Enoch attacked Miss Shevick, a school girl of 16 years, under the Seaboard Air Line bridge, on April 26. He is alleged to have assaulted her with a blunt instrument, inflicting fatal injuries about the head and body. Two warrants are pending against him, one incorporating murder and the other assault. The young girl died the day following the attack, never regaining consciousness.

Rhineland Republic Means Domination Of Europe By the French

Says Bob Dorman, N. E. A. Service Staff Writer, Who Has Just Returned From Trip Abroad.

(Bob Dorman recently returned from a territory which is now the new Rhineland Republic. He was there as correspondent and observer for N. E. A. Service. He hobnobbed with officers and enlisted men of both the French and German armies. He fraternized with laborers. He sat in with political and business leaders. In short, he obtained a full picture of the attitudes and aspirations of all who are now directly influenced by the founding of a new political state. Probably no writer in America is better qualified to tell what it all means.—Editor.)

BY BOB DORMAN (Special to The Bee)

With the establishment of the Rhineland Republic an accomplished fact, the primary aim of the French occupation of the Ruhr is attained. Though Premier Poincare of France officially denies any such aim, such was the prevailing idea. I found among the officers of the army of occupation when I was with them recently. Their views of a successful accomplishment of such a coup-d'etat, are of interest in the light of what has followed. First, the establishment of a Rhineland Republic, a buffer state between France and a revenge-seeking Germany. Second, payment of reparations becomes a visionary dream, with the richest part of the German Reich separated from Germany. A Rhineland Republic will always lean toward the French rather than toward the Reich, because of fear of reconquest by the German government. Third, with domination of the Rhineland, French industrial domination of continental Europe becomes complete. The coal of the Ruhr added to the rich ore beds of Lorraine places her on an equal footing with her rival, England. France can dominate Europe equally in a military sense. Her industrial supremacy, added to her agricultural resources, will make her position well nigh impregnable. Fourth, the successful separation of the Rhineland, will stimulate like action on the part of other German states, none too closely bound to each other. A complete destruction of the Reich would remove for many years, and perhaps forever, a war of revenge.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Frost have occurred in Mississippi, Arkansas, Georgia and Louisiana. At points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi temperature was between 20 and 30 degrees, which ends all hope of a top crop in these states.

Hedge selling is almost nil. Spinners have been following a hand to mouth policy and it is only a question of a short time when they will have to come into the market. Understand there is a great scarcity of white cotton. As the market advances, reactions will be more severe and advantage should be taken to buy on good recessions.

(By The Associated Press)
YADKINVILLE, N. C., Oct. 24.—While alone in their home near here, five-year-old Beulah Lee Burchett put the muzzle of a shot gun in her mouth and asked her ten-year-old brother to pull the trigger. He did. Death was instantaneous. The boy said he did not think the gun was loaded.

Believe the Ship Westmoreland Is Safe On Atlantic

(By The Associated Press)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 24.—The Hampton Roads manager of the Norton Lilly Steamship Company today stated that he is all but positive that the Steamer Westmoreland, supposed to have been down off the Irish coast yesterday morning, is not in the British steamer Westmoreland which left Newport News October 12 for Boston.

The British steamer Westmoreland left Boston October 15 and is for United Kingdom ports and should be back before the Atlantic this time, the agents here say. For this reason they are convinced that the Westmoreland, whose distress calls were picked up by the Steamer Phoenix, the Hampton Roads Naval Base and Cape May is not the ship that was first supposed to be down.

The New York Life insurance company has two of three steamers bearing the name Westmoreland and he believes that the craft which called for help was one other than that for which his company is agent.

The master of the Phoenix was positive however that the steamer calling for help was the British Westmoreland.

Modern Schools Opened In Guam By U. S. Teachers

(By The Associated Press)
AGANA, Guam, Oct. 24.—The first professional American teachers ever brought to the island of Guam, which the United States took over from Spain 25 years ago, have just arrived here.

Chaplain W. L. Thompson, U. S. N., who was detailed as head of the department of education on Guam in 1921, says he will now be able to modernize the school system of the island. Up-to-date text books have arrived from the United States, and the chaplain will now be able to extend the course of study to the children. One-third of all the revenue of the island government is expended for education.

The new American teachers, Dr. Thomas Collins and four young women, will perform a veritable miracle in turning the Chamorro children a knowledge of the English language, which Chaplain Thompson says is the most necessary element in the effort for general development.

Chaplain Thompson and Dr. Collins have started a normal school which will give the native teachers their first opportunity to learn accurate English and approved methods and principles of teaching.

The rapid increase in native population since the American occupation, according to the governor of Guam, Captain H. B. Price, U. S. N., has brought the number of children in school up to 2,300. Of this number approximately 300 are more than 12 years old and attend school voluntarily. There are now 16 buildings with 63 native teachers in charge.

For the first time in the history of American rule in Guam, the native communities surrounding the schools are showing an active interest in education. Governor Price reports. One group of Chamorros recently salvaged many miles up-hill and helped install it as a flag pole in front of a school building. The village of San Mateo, the people recently voluntarily painted their school house.

The supervision of schools in the more remote districts has its hazards, Chaplain Thompson and Dr. Collins make monthly inspection trips through dense jungle and swamp, mounted on bulls. These plodding animals, gentle enough when handled by a native, become suddenly spirited at the unfamiliar touch of these men, and riding them adds a certain sporting element to school teaching in the tropics.

The naval medical officers on Guam have accomplished remarkable results through examining all school children and treating them at the navy hospital here for defects of the eyes, teeth, and their general health. The superstitious fear of the hospital gradually is being overcome, and the children have actually entered the hospital voluntarily. In outlying villages the navy hospital corps look after the children, give first-aid lessons to the native teachers, and serve the medical needs of the community in every way.

Devotes Life To Helping Men Freed From Jail

(By The Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 24.—The movement which resulted in the incorporation several months ago of the Sam S. Williams Voucher Club, a national organization of friendly interest in leaving prison prisoners, has extended to include other cities and its organizers expect a nationwide representation within a short time. It is a non-profit order.

Sam S. ("Daddy") Williams, of Cleveland, is president of the society, which has for its chief purposes the prevention of crime, constructive prison reform, aid in rehabilitation of prisoners paroled or released from prisons, and encouragement of more liberal use of probation systems.

The program also includes providing ex-prisoners with surroundings that will prevent them from taking up old associates and protecting them until they are self-supporting, and a fund for taking care of the families of prisoners.

"Daddy" Williams has spent 47 years getting men out of prison, and helping them keep out, during this time he has helped a large number of men get a new start. His records show only one backslider.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The cotton market was rather nervous and unsettled following an advance into new high ground for the season. The opening was largely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 16 points under scattering trading and southern selling. Reactionary sentiment was much in evidence and the more active months sold about 8 to 22 points not lower during the early trading, with December closing at 26.05, October was relatively easy, declining to 26.13.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The situation of a majority of traders in what is a fairly good recovery in today's market and the ideas are not as gloomy as they were late yesterday. It is evident, however, that something more substantial than sentimental reassurance will be necessary to bring about a sustained advance.

Corn: Indications are not lacking that the supply of cash corn is about to overtake the demand in view of which it could prove the turn of a downward movement in the market, on any advance resulting from technical conditions.

G. O. P. Scarce Of Members Experienced In Floor Combat and Intimate Details of Procedure, Deaths or Retirements Having Removed Them.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Besides the difficulties which it will encounter with the military progressives in its party ranks, the regular republican organization in the House of Representatives will find itself handicapped at the coming session by reason of a scarcity of members experienced in floor combat and the more intimate details of parliamentary procedure.

Deaths and voluntary or enforced retirements have removed from the majority side of the house almost the entire group of men who in recent sessions have stood as the bulwark against the onslaughts of the minority. As a result, whoever succeeds to the floor leadership vacated by Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, will find himself in the position of having to meet almost unaided the frequent efforts of the demands to throw the proverbial monkey wrench into the House machine.

Supporting the majority leader will be no man to travel parliamentary. Senators to expound learned upon the rules, no wish to be ready with musty precedents against this proposal or that. Neither will there be a Stafford eagerly watchful of every move "across the aisle" nor a Campbell to boldly cross swords with the opposition.

There will be a different situation on the democratic side. Every one of the old group of leaders will be back and they will be augmented by Cordell Hull who has been returned to the House from Tennessee. There will be the resourceful Garrett of Tennessee, the floor leader; Oldfield of Arkansas, "Whip" Garner of Tex., who is at his best in a rough and tumble debate; Crisp of Georgia, who is recognized as one of the best parliamentarians to sit in the house in recent years; Byrnes of South Carolina; Byrnes of Tennessee and the ever-alert Blanton of Texas.

In the Senate there will be what is regarded generally as a fairly equal division of experienced leadership. Lodge, of Massachusetts will be in his place as the majority leader, with Curtis, of Kansas, as his assistant. They will be supported by Watson, of Indiana; Snoot of Utah; Wadsworth, of New York; Sterling, of South Dakota; Messersmith of New Hampshire, and others who will succeed to the party places made vacant by the retirement of McCumber, of North Dakota; Nease, of Indiana and Kellogg, of Minnesota.

Robinson, of Arkansas will be the momentary leader and will have about him much experienced assistants as Underwood, of Alabama; Simmons of North Carolina; Stanley of Kentucky; Reed, of Missouri; Walsh of Massachusetts; Walden of Montana and Harrison, of Mississippi, some of whom will replace in the leadership ranks, Hitchcock of Nebraska and Pomeroy of Ohio, who failed at re-election.

Because of the approach of the national political campaign, partisan policies necessarily will bulk large in the Senate debate. Harrison and Caraway, of Arkansas, will be found again carrying the battle to the majority with William C. Clegg, of Missouri, and others who will be on the Republican side.

MORNING STOCK LETTER
Thomson & McKinnon
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Do you recall the daily maps in the papers during war days, especially during the latter stages when they published what was called the Hindenburg line or some other line? I have been looking at a chart of the stock market published in one of the New York papers and while I don't know a thing about charts or how to read them, or whether anybody can read them, at the same time I could not help but think of the similarity in the appearance of the chart line and the old war lines, incidentally that is exactly what it is. Now, we have an array of men on one side of the market anticipating a disaster and on the other side investors—new and old—hoping for a continuation of normal and ultimately, better than normal. Now the problem is, what is it going to be? I don't suppose there is a soul on earth that could answer this positively. My own judgment is that the market has discounted all that is unfavorable.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—Better cables than due put the December position to 29.90 a new high level for the season, in the cotton market on the opening today, but other months were depressed by realizing sales from the long side and after the close the whole list sagged, December falling to 29.60. At this level prices were 22 points under the close of yesterday. Cold weather in the belt steadied the market as it fell.

26 MILLION AMERICANS

One in every four, have savings accounts. Some accounts are, of course, very small, but the large number shows that people are realizing the importance of accumulating a reserve of ready money, and of keeping it where it will earn and grow. Even though your savings must be small, why not keep them in the COMMERCIAL BANK where they will earn four per cent. compounded? Small amounts saved systematically grow surprisingly.
